REV. FR. ALEJANDRO MORAL ANTÓN, OSA, Augustinian Prior General and a long-time friend of Pope Leo XIV: He is "a joyful, hardworking, and intelligent man who was a great companion [...] He is good to travel with because he doesn't talk much."

MS. SARA SCHROEDER, parishioner of Holy Name Cathedral: "It felt like it was continuing that inclusivity message from Pope Francis, that hopefully is coming to Pope Leo. Everybody's loved ... everyone is just, you know, part of God's family."

FR. ERICK VÍLCHEZ, Peruvian priest, Prelature of Chota: "I introduced myself, 'Monsignor, we're in charge of the liturgy. We're here to serve.' He replied, 'That's good. Just so you know, I'm very obedient. So, let's prepare in the best way possible!' There at that time, I saw that closeness, the simplicity of Monsignor Robert, now the Holy Father."

H.E. LUIS ANTONIO CARDINAL TAGLE, Pro-Prefect of the Dicastery for Evangelization: "We worked together in the Roman Curia starting in 2023. He has a deep and patient capacity for listening and engages in careful study and reflection before making a decision. The Pope expresses his feelings and preferences without imposing them. [...] Pope Leo brings a calm warmth, shaped by prayer and missionary experience."

In a time when wellbeing is often reduced to tools and techniques, this inspiring collection returns to what lies beneath: the human experience.

Written by educators, psychologists, and practitioners in the Philippines, these chapters offer a culturally grounded yet globally relevant exploration of how people grow, adapt, and find meaning. Topics range from character strengths and workplace wellbeing to resilience, identity, aging, and the role of purpose.

Rather than promising quick solutions, this book holds space for reflection and contemplation. It bridges research and experiences, showing that wellbeing is not just about feeling better, but about understanding what it means to be fully human in the face of change.

"The book is a scintillating symphony of ecological mysticism and human spiritual quest."

Cardinal Charles Bo

Word of Hope for Groaning Earth is a must-read for everyone, especially for committed Christians. The book draws on a powerful metaphor which I myself call "The Great Chain of Being," echoing St. Francis' Canticle of Creatures. Br. Cris Pine, OFM, offers reflections that make Scripture relevant and responsive to the pressing climate crisis we face today. True to our Franciscan tradition, Br. Cris concludes his reflections with a key message: "There is hope for our groaning Earth because God's love has already penetrated even the seemingly impenetrable - the human heart."

Br. Richard Rohr, OFM

The Devotion to the Madre Santissima del Lume in Cainta and the Philippines

It is worth noting that the devotion to the Inang Santisima was introduced in Cainta in 1727, five years after the apparition of the Madre Santissima del Lume in Palermo, Sicily in 1722. In this regard, we could say that this town and parish became the cradle of this new Marian devotion promoted by the Jesuits, and from there, may have spread to other parts of the country. This devotion has acquired a Filipino feature when the parish commissioned Maestro Fernando C. Amorsolo to make a new painting of the Inang Santisima for the church of Cainta in 1950, to replace the painting brought by the Jesuits that was destroyed in 1899.

In a 1615 letter, the great scientist Galileo quoted Tertullian "We conclude that God is known first through Nature, and then again, more particularly, by doctrine; by Nature in His works, and by doctrine in His revealed word." (Letter to Madam Christina of Lorraine, 1615).

Br. Cristino Robles Pine, OFM vividly communicates this important and challenging insight in contemporary terms, drawing on his personal experiences and his studies of nature and of biblical theology. Firmly set in his home context of the Philippines, he shows how both the scriptures and the book of nature need to be read in the light of God's plan for all creation. Br. Cris has made an important contribution to our continuing "unpacking" of Pope Francis' Laudato Si', with its emphasis on an integral ecology expressed in an inclusive faith that reaches out in love, justice, and compassion to all the inhabitants of "our common home". I am delighted to see a Franciscan friar engaged in studies so much in tune with a Franciscan view of the world — a vision that has never been more relevant.

In his Apostolic Letter "Desiderio Desideravi," Pope Francis urges Catholics to "rediscover the beauty of the truth of the Christian celebration" and to be immersed in the paschal mystery, with the aim of a transformation aligned with Christ. Where else can this daily celebration of the Paschal Mystery occur but in the Eucharist?

This book is crafted to assist ordained ministers and Catholic faithful, especially those with a profound love for the Holy Mass whether as attendees, liturgical ministers, or teachers of faith (including parents and godparents) in deepening their devotion to the Eucharist. By exploring the often overlooked Eucharistic Prayer IV, infrequently used by priests, readers will gain insights into their faith, understanding the prayer's beauty and richness. The prayer becomes a tool for spiritual growth, aligning with Pope Francis's vision to "transform every dimension of our life, conforming us more and more to Christ."

The book also extends an invitation to our beloved Priests and Bishops, encouraging them to appreciate and pray Eucharistic Prayer IV regularly, especially during Ordinary Time. By doing so, they can convey the profound narrative of the Work of Redemption through the liturgy, particularly during the Holy Mass.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

DR. Dave Ceasar F. Dela Cruz, O.P., is a perpetual professed member of the Order of Preachers -Dominican Laity and a licensed professional teacher. This book is a compelling exploration of Pope Francis' call to refocus on God, echoing the Synod on Synodality. The book delves into the Gospel, highlighting God's essence as a communion of life and love, promoting unity through love and service rather than hierarchy. It passionately advocates for a shift from a hierarchical Church to an egalitarian one, emphasizing inclusivity and freedom from discrimination. With a focus on women, it portrays them as agents of change advocating for the marginalized. The narrative invites communal reflection and serves as an inspiring call to embrace synodality, fostering a Church where diversity is celebrated, and all members are equally loved and led by the Holy Spirit.

The Great Catholic Tradition of Social Concern; An Introduction to Catholic Social Thought; Ferdinand Santos; dialogue; encounter; Church of the poor; New Commandment; social theory; Ferdinand Santos

Father Santos' book seeks to understand the intellectual and spiritual threads that underlie the 2000 year-old Catholic endeavor "to love as Jesus loves", most especially those who are nearest and dearest to God's heart, namely, the poor. The work attempts to do this by first entering into an "encounter" and "dialogue" with modes of thought that, on the surface at least, present a challenge and even a serious critique of the manner by which the Church has understood and sought to live Jesus' New Commandment. By entering into a respectful dialogue with non-religious and secular thinkers, the work seeks not only to show what sets Catholicism's "social theory" apart, thereby distinguishing it, from secular social theories, but to also lay bare, lines of similarity between them, thus opening the possibility, not only for authentic dialogue, but even sincere cooperation. At the heart of this encounter between the uniquely Catholic approach to social concern and the more secular, non-religious type, is the thread running through the entire work. It's one inspired by Pope Francis himself as well as the consistent papal magisterium of the last hundred years. This is the idea that what runs through "our veins", not just as Christians, but as human beings, is something that was taught, mirrored, lived and incarnated by Jesus himself: love, care and concern for one's fellow human being, especially those who need us most."

Kung Bakit May Mga Tanong Ang Buhay is an interdisciplinary reflection on why human beings face life questions. The basic framework uses philosophical theories on the self, particularly the self as a kapwa loob, which seeks to realize itself in the world based on freedom and finitude, love, and responsibility. It introduces the techniques of Ignatian discernment to understand how life calls us to fullness. Although the work draws from philosophy and spirituality, the book addresses believers and non-believers who seek to realize human flourishing and authentic existence.

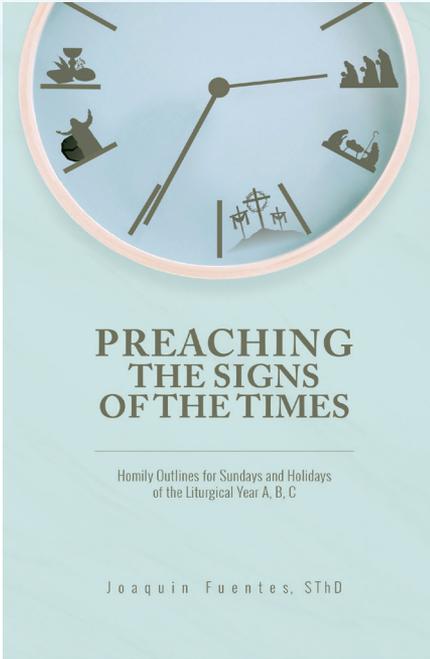

The book may be helpful in teaching the philosophy of the human person to college students and as a reference book for those teaching courses on Discerning Life's Questions.

These days, it is easy for preachers to acquire homily materials from several books and even from the internet. In one click of the mouse, homily materials are readily available. However, majority of these materials offer homily literature in essay form.

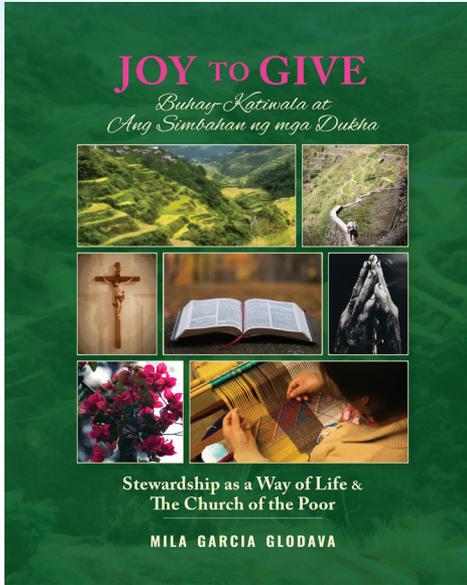

In delivering a homily, it can be challenging to recall all the details in verbatim form. A homily in outline form is easier to remember. The advantage of a homily outline is that it presents thought patterns and developments that preachers can easily follow. In lieu of reading the homily verbatim, preachers can utilize the outline. In this manner, they can systematically and logically develop their homilies. An organized homily is both easier to present as well as more persuasive.

The book is entitled, "Preaching the Signs of the Times." In Mark 13:22, Jesus talked about the need to recognize the "signs of the times." The term was given a specific theological meaning at Vatican II. In the Pastoral Constitution on the Church in the Modern World, the term was used to refer to "those events in history, which, if properly read, can reveal the presence of God" (Gaudium et Spes 4). The Church needs to preach the signs of the times. Preachers need to guide the people to recognize the presence of God in their midst and direct them towards the significance and challenges of the Gospel in their lives in our times present.

Preaching during Mass is the primordial way for priests to carry out their mission of Evangelization. The author hopes that these homily outlines could help preachers in better proclaiming the Word of God!

The book is a helpful material to us, especially the lay people, in understanding and practicing the spirituality of stewardship in the light of the call to become a "Church of the Poor". Surely, the Basic Ecclesial Communities, or BECs is the fertile ground in which the spirituality of stewardship as a Way of Life will be thriving and fruitful. In the Archdiocese of Davao, with its suffragan dioceses of Digos, Tagum and Mati, through the leadership of archbishop Romulo G. Valles, we are slowly but steadily practicing it in a synodal way.

— Most Rev. George B. Rimando
*Auxiliary Bishop of Davao
Davao City, Philippines*

Having access to Mila Glodava's experience collected in this book is an exceptional gift. For Spanish parishes, that are beginning to put stewardship into practice, this book will be an invaluable help. Rather than focusing on fundraising for the needs of the Church, she helps us to embrace the need to give, in grateful response to God's abundance. Thanks be given to the Lord for her testimony of a lifetime dedicated to inspire gratitude.

— Rev. Fr. Diego Zalbidea Gonzalez
*Canon Law Professor
University of Navarre
Pamplona, Spain*

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

With more than 30 years of parish work in the Archdiocese of Denver, Mila Garcia Glodava has gained recognition in the United States for developing, along with Father Andrew Kemberling, the multi-award-winning Saint Thomas More Parish Stewardship Model. The duo co-authored Making Stewardship a Way of Life: A Complete Guide for Catholic Parishes (Our Sunday Visitor, 2009), helping parishes in the United States and abroad. Mila is also the founding president of Metro Infanta Foundation, that addresses the needs of the poorest of the poor in the Prelature of Infanta and beyond since 1996. Mila earned a Bachelor of Science in Education from Saint Paul College (now University) Manila in 1969 and a Master of Arts in Theology from Augustine Institute in 2015.

The book Holy, Mother, Virgin, Helper, Queen: A Symbolical, Theological, Historical and Devotional Look into the Litany of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Loreto began as a collection of coats of arms of each title of the revised Litany of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Loreto that was shown at the Immaculate Conception School of Theology in Vigan City in 2020. Now, as a treatise on Marian titles, symbols and devotions, this collection by authors Kendrick Ivan B. Panganiban and Rev. Fr. Victor Emmanuel C. Quintos is now presented as both a group of artistic representations of the motherhood and patronage of the Blessed Virgin Mary as well as an essay into the historical, theological, and devotional links of the Marian titles and symbols of Loreto. This work utilizes the ancient art of ecclesiastical heraldry, that of the crafting of coats of arms, as a means to present the via pulchritudinis (the way of beauty), which has been a tool for evangelization in the Church. It also contains a unique set of sketches of Marian images from various places in the Philippines to showcase the Filipinos' love for Mary as Pueblo amante de María.

"The Church is Ecclesia semper reformanda and the Holy Spirit continues to beckon and guide us through reform, change, and renewal... As the whole Church celebrates synodality, I wish that this volume be a timely guide for our pilgrim journey. I congratulate and thank the author and all those who have labored hard towards the writing and publication of this volume. May this work become a precious gift and a blessing to the Church in Asia and beyond" (from the FOREWORD).

President of the Federation of Asian Bishops' Conferences

"Our Church needs continuing reforms (Ecclesia semper reformanda) because the Spirit, like the wind, blows where it wishes (John 3:8). It is in this light that I recommend the timely book of Dr. José Mario Bautista Maximiano entitled "Church Reforms 2... This book demonstrates how the Church has remained relevant by continually responding to the exigencies of the times" (from the MESSAGE).

Br. Cristino Robles Pine, OFM vividly communicates this important and challenging insight in contemporary terms, drawing on his personal experiences and his studies of nature and of biblical theology. Firmly set in his home context of the Philippines, he shows how both the scriptures and the book of nature need to be read in the light of God's plan for all creation. Br. Cris has made an important contribution to our continuing "unpacking" of Pope Francis' Laudato Si', with its emphasis on an integral ecology expressed in an inclusive faith that reaches out in love, justice, and compassion to all the inhabitants of "our common home". I am delighted to see a Franciscan friar engaged in studies so much in tune with a Franciscan view of the world — a vision that has never been more relevant.

Consecrated life has "magic", a special charm: the magic of freedom! Evangelical Counsels -and not precepts- perform a way of life in which the Master-Jesus, the Counselor-Spirit are always inspiring and empowering religious. It is necessary to contemplate the consecrated life as a whole, and not partially. Thus, we experience the Covenant with the God of biodiversity, which has put his image and likeness in us.

The Spirit is to be found everywhere. The Spirit is present and acts where we least expect. The seduction of the Spirit (Harvey Cox) never stops. Never before has the Spirit's presence been so multilingual, so pluriform, so endlessly diverse. Within the Spirit we encounter the Mystery that is the most elusive of all but that is the most significant for humanity and the cosmos. Whoever connects with the Spirit of a Thousand Names will one day begin to feel drawn to Christ Crucified, will be invaded by the memory of Jesus of Nazareth, will have the perspective of the fulfilled Word open to him/her, will sigh with joy, will tremble within, and will make a profession of faith, "I believe in you, Abba".

It is significant that Vatican II has dedicated four chapters of the Constitution Lumen Gentium to the different forms of Christian life: to the ordained ministry (chapter III); to the laity (chapter IV); to the religious (chapter VI); and to all Christians called to sanctity (chapter V). Vatican II has taught us to understand the Church as a community of convoked people, where every form of Christian life is mutually developed and vivified. Vatican II has placed the foundation for an "existential ecclesiology" or an ecclesiology of the forms of Christian life or a "theological-charismatic anthropology."

In the closing decades of the twentieth century, we heard a great deal about paradigms and paradigm shifts. Confronted with a culture of rapid change, specialists tried to make sense of what was transpiring all around. As the reader moves through the material of this book, a sense of pattern begins to unfold, and we discern the hand of God more clearly at work. It helps to make sense of the upheaval all around us, while offering direction and hope for a more promising future.
